

Dr. Devon Ramey

Dr. Devon Ramey is a BCBA-D, UKBA(cert), and Senior Lecturer at Queen's University Belfast. She has over 15 years of experience supporting autistic individuals across a variety of educational, clinical, and home settings.

Her research focuses on improving the quality of life and self-determination of autistic people, with particular interests in using behavioural indicators of mood as quality-of-life measures, community-based participatory research, technology-based instruction, and psychosexual education for autistic adolescents.